

More on marriage Life

The highest guiding principle in marriage should be the principle of selfless service to one's partner. Selfless action alone is the real expression of love.

Young people in particular often expect too much from marriage: they think that once married they will achieve fulfillment in life. Young girls think that they will marry the man of their dreams and many men think that their wives will always seem like beautiful and loving princesses. But after a few months of marriage they realize with a shock that the person they have married cannot live up to their fantasies. They become disappointed after a short time they regret the decision, and think that they have made a mistake. The real mistake is in expecting too much from the marriage in the first place rather than recognizing that the purpose of marriage is to learn to live selflessly.

Marriage is not biological necessity. The sexual drive is a biological necessity. The sexual drive is a biological reality and necessity, but marriage is not. These are two different issues; sex is an act and marriage is an understanding. Ideally these two should go hand in hand but if people marry for the sake of having sexual partner they don't really understand the purpose of life. The more about how to relate to others and how to experience joy in doing things for others. It is possible to learn those lessons when a close relationship is created.

To have a happy marriage life it isn't necessary for both people to be intellectuals. Marital happiness has nothing to do with this mind actually even if both partners are brilliant they might simply fight and argue exactly the people do in legislatures. Everyone knows what happen in legislative debates two intellectuals discuss a situation for several years and they never succeed in passing a bill or reaching the conclusion. If two intellectuals in marriage go on debating and arguing about how they want to build the house will never be completed and it will never become a home.

When people consider marriage they should ask themselves as individuals, "Can I live with this person happily? " Can I Live with this? Person happily? Can I make him or her happy? Unfortunately we often ask "Can he or she make me happy?" which is wrong way to think. The question itself is selfish. If you ask "Do you love me?" it means "I am not able to love you; I'm a very selfish person, but I expect love from you.

MARRIED LIFE IS A COMMITMENT THAT MUST BE MADE WITH ONE'S FULL HEART & MIND. THIS COMMITMENT MUST BE DEPTH OF ONE'S BEING, RATHER THAN TAKEN LIGHTLY. IF YOU UNDERTAKE MARRIAGE LIGHTLY OR WITHOUT SINCERITY IT WILL NEVER SUCCEED. AND WHEN MARRIAGES FAIL TO BECOME CENTERS OF LOVE, THE WHOLE SOCIETY BECOMES DISTURBED. IF MARRIAGES FAIL TO CREATE LOVE, SOCIETY BECOMES DISGRATES AND RETURNS TO A VIOLENT AND PRIMITIVE LEVEL THEN THERE IS NO HARMONY OR PEACE. WHEN INDIVIDUAL MARRIAGES BECOMES CENTERS OF LOVE, THEY PRODUCE LOVE THAT RADIATES TO OTHERS.

More I think More I Laugh More I laugh More I think-----

Sudhir Edathara - "Inspiring Good"

Subscribe "-- moreithinkmoreilaugh@yahoo.com

Thank You..... This Article I have copied from book of Great author Swami RAMA (The Himalayan institute of yoga science and philosophy of the USA.

Sudhir Edathara "Inspiring Good"

More I think More I Laugh More I laugh More I think-----

Sudhir Edathara - "Inspiring Good"

Subscribe "-- moreithinkmoreilaugh@yahogroups.com

online darshan.com
Enter the Divine World

Subscribe -- morethinkmoreenough@yahoogroups.com

Sudhir Edathara "Inspiring Good"

More I think More I Laugh More I laugh More I think-----

Sudhir Edathara - "Inspiring Good"

Subscribe "-- moreithinkmoreilaugh@yahogroups.com